Aloha Pacific Federal Credit Union Launches Mobile Banking

HONOLULU—Aloha Pacific Federal Credit Union (Aloha Pacific) launched a new free mobile banking service today that gives account access to members who subscribe to internet service on their mobile phones regardless of which carrier they use.

With mobile banking, members can:

- access their balances;
- schedule or edit bill payments; and
- view, cancel or schedule transfers between his account products.

This convenient service is aimed at helping members manage their finances. By visiting www.kalanetonline.com from a mobile phone's web browser, members can log in using their existing KalaNet Online Banking user name and password.

All information is protected with 128-bit encryption that prevents wireless providers or anyone else from infringing on the signal and deciphering the information. Other safety features include an inactivity lock out, failed log-in lock out, account number masking and multi-factor identification requirements.

"Mobile banking is part of our continued efforts to provide products and services that offer our members convenience and value," said Wallace Y. Watanabe, president and CEO of Aloha Pacific. "With account access at their fingertips, members can avoid incurring fees associated with overdrafts or insufficient funds."
