Aloha Pacific Federal Credit Union Donates $20,000 To Kapiolani Children's Miracle Network

HONOLULU—Aloha Pacific Federal Credit Union (Aloha Pacific) raised $20,000 in support of Kapiolani Children's Miracle Network (KCMN) and presented the check to Stacey Acma, director of philanthropy for foundations of Hawaii Pacific Health and Kapiolani Children's Miracle Network, today.

The funds were raised from May 1 to Sept. 15 through the sale of baked goods, plate lunches, hand crafts, jewelry and KCMN paper balloons. Coin canisters were also placed at every branch. In addition to donating their culinary and craft talents to the fundraising drive, Aloha Pacific staff participated in an organization-wide event in celebration of Miracle Jeans Day. Staff donated $5 each, which allowed them to dress in a red, yellow or blue shirt and jeans to spread the world about KCMN.

The fundraising efforts are part of the Credit Union for Kids program and support the many services provided by Kapiolani Medical Center for Women and Children that are not covered by insurance. The funds raised are critical to providing care for all of Hawaii's children and often assist children who are uninsured or under-insured. One hundred percent of all funds raised in Hawaii stay in Hawaii to help our community.
